

A workshop with Hugh Dellar: Teaching Lexically

When: Saturday 17th April 2021, 10:00am – 12:00pm
Location: Online

This workshop is split into two sessions with a break in between.

AN INTRODUCTION TO TEACHING LEXICALLY 1

In our first session, we look at what a lexical way of looking at language involves - and how it differs from a more traditional grammar + words approach. We'll explore why a grammar plus words approach can be hard to sustain, and consider some of the problems it presents in terms of classroom content. We will then move on to workshop some key principles of a more lexical approach to language teaching before touching briefly on some of the theoretical roots of this approach.

TEACHING LEXICALLY: PUTTING THEORY INTO PRACTICE

In this more practically-oriented session, we look at how a more lexical way of looking at language impacts on the way we teach grammar and vocabulary, how we can decide which words are most worth focusing on, what we should best do with new words and how we can create space for our students in our explanations and examples.

Hugh Dellar has over twenty-five years' experience in the field and is the co-founder of the online school and training company Lexical Lab. He has co-authored two five-level General English series, Outcomes and Innovations, both published by National Geographic Learning, as well as one level of the high-school series Perspectives. His first methodology book, Teaching Lexically, came out via Delta Publishing in 2016. Most recently, he has worked on two levels of the new Pearson General English series, Roadmap. You can find out more about his work here:

www.lexicallab.com

www.facebook.com/lexicallablimited

Register for the event:

Click on the Zoom registration link here to sign up for the event: SIGN ME UP!